

Worship Service Theme: The Golden Rule

Helpful elements:

Green table covering (Ordinary Time)

Welcome: Welcome! It's so good to be together to celebrate faith and community today. My name is ____ and I'll be leading our worship time. Our theme for today is the Golden Rule.

What is the Golden Rule? Say it with me: "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Who said that? Jesus – as recorded in the gospel of Matthew (7:12). We'll be taking a closer look at that famous instruction today, and how it affects our lives and our faith.

Please pray with me as we open our time together.

Opening Prayer: Great and loving God, we ask your Holy Spirit to bless our time together and refresh us with your presence. In the midst of a world full of trouble and strife, we thank you for watching over us, guiding us, and as we confess our sins, for forgiving us. Enable us to enter your presence today joyfully and reverently, and let us depart with the assurance that our sins are forgiven. Fill us, O God, with the peace that passes all understanding. Amen.

Opening Hymn: Doxology

Statement of Faith: Let us affirm our statement of faith by reciting Psalm 23 together:

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.

²He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: he leadeth me beside the still waters.

³He restoreth my soul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake.

⁴Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.

⁵Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

⁶Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

Amazing Grace

First reading: From the Gospel of Matthew (7:1-5, 12)

Jesus said: “Judge not, that you be not judged. ²For with the judgment you pronounce you will be judged, and with the measure you use it will be measured to you. ³Why do you see the speck that is in your brother’s eye, but do not notice the log that is in your own eye? ⁴Or how can you say to your brother, ‘Let me take the speck out of your eye,’ when there is the log in your own eye? ⁵You hypocrite, first take the log out of your own eye, and then you will see clearly to take the speck out of your brother’s eye. ...

¹²“So whatever you wish that others would do to you, do also to them, for this is the Law and the Prophets.”

This is the word of the Lord; thanks be to God.

Jesus Loves Me

Second reading: From the Gospel of Luke (6: 27-35)

Jesus said: ²⁷“But I say to you who hear, Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you, ²⁸bless those who curse you, pray for those who abuse you. ²⁹To one who strikes you on the cheek, offer the other also, and from one who takes away your cloak do not withhold your tunic either. ³⁰Give to everyone who begs from you, and from one who takes away your goods do not demand them back. ³¹And as you wish that others would do to you, do so to them. ... ³⁵[L]ove your enemies, and do good, and lend, expecting nothing in return, and your reward will be great, and you will be sons and daughters of the Most High, because God is kind to the ungrateful and the evil.

This is the word of the Lord; thanks be to God.

Interactive Homily: Let's think a little more about the Golden Rule, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Jesus says the entire Law and Prophets' teachings can be summed up with this one rule.

- What does "do unto others" mean really? What are some examples?
 - If you wish people wouldn't judge you, you do the same
 - If you wish people would overlook your faults, you do the same.
 - If you wish people would take care of you, you do the same.
 - If you wish people would treat you with respect, you do the same.
 - [generate more examples – generosity, love, goodness, etc.]
- Some ancient thinkers stated the Golden Rule in the negative: "Do NOT do to others what you would not want done to you." How is the Golden Rule different?
 - Stated in the positive: DO Good.
 - I wonder what you think: Is it easier to not do bad things, or is it easier to do the right things?
 - Actively choosing to do right may take more effort!
 - It's not an easy rule to follow universally! When we're treated badly, how do we sometimes want to respond?
 - Treat others badly in return! Revenge
- Who is it easy to treat the way you want to be treated?
 - People we love or like: family, friends, nice people, clean people, people "like us"
- Who is it hard to treat this way?
 - People we don't like, are suspicious of, strangers, people "not like us"
 - People we think we can't help; younger, stronger, richer...
 - Everyday people we may not notice; waitresses, store clerks, children...
 - It's not an easy rule to follow universally! Example of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and the Civil Rights movement: determined to make change happen without resorting to violence, even toward those who treated Black people violently.

- Why should we follow the Golden Rule? What's the outcome? Let's read Jesus' words again: "But love your enemies, and do good, and lend, expecting nothing in return, and your reward will be great, and you will be sons and daughters of the Most High, because God is kind to the ungrateful and the evil."
 - What does Jesus say is our motivation to treat others the way we want to be treated?
 - Reward will be great! From whom? From those we care for?
 - No; the reward comes from God
 - What kind of rewards does the scripture say we receive?
 - We will be sons and daughters of God.
 - Who do children take after?
 - Their parents! We will be God's children, in God's family, because we ACT like him: God is merciful and kind even to those who are not.

That's a family I want to be part of; how about you?

Let's take a moment to silently pray and reflect on God's call to love our enemies and treat others as we would like to be treated.

(Silent Prayer) ... Lord, hear our prayers. Now let us pray the Lord's prayer together:

Lord's Prayer: Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come, thy will be done, on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For thine is the kingdom, the power, and the glory forever, Amen.

Third Reading: Quote on the Golden Rule

This is from President Barak Obama’s address to the graduating class of Notre Dame in May 2009: “For if there is one law that we can be most certain of, it is the law that binds people of all faiths and no faith together. It is no coincidence that it exists in Christianity and Judaism; in Islam and Hinduism, in Buddhism and humanism. It is, of course, the Golden Rule – the call to treat one another as we wish to be treated. The call to love, to serve, to do what we can to make a difference in the lives of those with whom we share the same brief moment on this Earth.”

Fourth Reading: Aesop’s Fable: The Lion and the Mouse¹

A Lion lay asleep in the forest, his great head resting on his paws. A timid little Mouse came upon the Lion unexpectedly, and in her fright and haste to get away, the Mouse ran across the Lion’s nose. Roused from his nap, the Lion laid his huge paw angrily on the tiny creature to kill her.

“Spare me!” begged the poor Mouse. “Please let me go and someday I will surely repay you.”

The Lion was much amused to think that a Mouse could ever help him. But the Lion was generous and finally let the Mouse go.

Some days later, while stalking his prey in the forest, the Lion was caught in the coils of a hunter’s net. Unable to free himself, the Lion filled the forest with his angry roaring. The Mouse knew the voice and quickly found the Lion struggling in the net. Running to one of the great ropes that bound him, the Mouse gnawed it until it parted, and soon the Lion was free.

“You laughed when I said I would repay you,” said the Mouse. “Now you see that even a Mouse can help a Lion.”
